

We heartily recommend A1 Plumbing and Heating – especially since they do all sorts of other building work too.

We came across this modest-sounding firm by accident when our boiler urgently needed servicing. Our house had been let for some years and we knew that a lot needed doing, but weren't sure in what order or by whom. Then, in discussion with A1, we realised that they could do almost everything we needed and find reliable subcontractors for what they couldn't do.

This is what they have achieved:

A new energy-efficient central heating system.

A shower room in the attic in a space we had not thought useable.

A beautiful oak floor from front door to back

A superb new kitchen designed and fitted to our specification

A new modern bathroom

An attractive brick wall to replace our tired front hedge.

All the above work was done to a high standard and by people whom it was a pleasure to have working in the house. We can wholeheartedly recommend them.
